Subject: 12-9-2015 Source materials delivery for Cargill Redwood City Salt Ponds
Date: Wednesday, December 09, 2015 3:22:05 PM

Ruth, Robin, and Lawrence, you should now have received an invitation email to our SharePoint site directly from Microsoft.

In that shared SharePoint folder I have placed the three sources that were provided to us by EPA and that they have requested also be shared with you.

In that SharePoint invite email are instructions for signing into the site and accessing the files. Let me know if the instructions are unclear, or do not work as expected.

The three sources are contained in three different folders:

- 1) U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Army Engineer Research and Development Center, June 8, 2014 Mean High Water Memo, contained in the folder "USACE";
- 2) A report prepared for DMB, Redwood City Saltworks by Michael Josselyn, WRA, Inc. titled "Redwood City Salt Plant Approved Jurisdictional Determination Submission," dated May 30, 2012, and contained in folder "Redwood City Saltworks";
- 3) A report prepared for Citizens to Complete the Refuge by Peter Baye (April 2010), titled "Regulatory Analysis of Clean Water Act Section 404 and Rivers and Harbors Act Section 10 Jurisdiction at Redwood City Salt Ponds, San Mateo County, California," contained in the folder "Citizens to Complete the Refuge".

Source number 2 contains the maps and materials most relevant to your tasks, and although sources 1 and 3 might not be as primary for your work, they do have useful background information.
